SOIL HEALTH CONFERENCE

MAY 30, 2012

Ocean County College
Toms River, NJ

To: Potential Sponsors
From: Charles Buscaglia, President NJACD
Date: February 7, 2012

The New Jersey Association of Conservation Districts invites you to become a sponsor of the NJACD Soil Health Conference being held at Ocean County College on May 30, 2012. This concept of this conference evolved from the NJ Conservation Partnership's new appreciation the importance of maintaining soil health and the responsibility of the agencies entrusted with managing this important resource.

Reduced global warming, carbon sequestration, increased agricultural production and reduced flooding are some of the issues dependent on HEALTHY SOIL. We appreciate that this concept is still somewhat new and not well understood. The purpose of this conference is not only to educate but to begin a dialogue with the various stakeholders on this important topic. We have an impressive cadre of experts presenting and sharing their research, resources and experiences regarding the critical role healthy soil plays in sustainability.

Your financial support will help ensure the success of this conference. Your contribution is tax deductible as we are a non-profit, tax exempt organization. Please consider sponsoring this conference. Enclosed please find a sponsorship form with further details. Conference registration, speaker information and the agenda can be found at www.ocscd.org.

DEADLINE IS March 15, 2012 TO BE INCLUDED IN PRINT MATERIALS
