

Montague Urban Homestead- Design Summary

The Montague Urban Homestead Landscape looks to maximize the use and productivity of the property by designating areas for food production, pollinators, wildlife habitat, and people. Public, semi-public, and private spaces are scattered throughout the property, catering to both residents and guests. This diverse assemblage of spaces unite in the front yard with a small gathering lawn surrounded by a grape-covered arbor, vegetable beds, herb beds and several fruiting shrubs.

Sustainable home tours can now include the surrounding landscape, showcasing food production, water harvesting, soil building, pollinator attraction, and urban privacy screening strategies, while residents can enjoy the newfound privacy, beauty, and delicious food this verdant landscape offers.
