

THE YOUNG AFRICAN RESEARCH ARENA (YARA) INTRODUCES THE REPOSITORY AND A SAMSUNG GALAXY TAB (7.0 PLUS) GIVE-AWAY

The Young African Research Arena (YARA) introduces The Repository, an online open access mini-library containing academic papers written by African students from across the continent

The Repository provides an opportunity for young African law students to publish short research papers produced during their course of study or based on 'curious' research. It encourages students to conduct, document and publish analytical papers on legal and policy issues.

Papers submitted to The Repository should be between 2000 (minimum) and 4000 (maximum) words long and should contain footnotes with full references (name of author(s), title of work, date of publication, name of publisher). Submissions should be sent to editor@yararena.org with the subject line: Submission, The Repository.

The papers submitted for publication in The Repository are reviewed by a team of editors, and the best papers are selected by each editor, based on the following criteria:

1. Originality
2. Grammar and Structure
3. Communication of a Coherent Idea

In December, 2013, the writer of the best paper submitted between the period September, 2013, and December, 2013, will be given a Samsung Galaxy Tab 7.0 Plus.

Because we have a limited number of editors, papers will be reviewed for publication on a first come first served basis.

For more information, visit www.yararena.org

Follow us on Twitter  (@The_Yararena) & on Facebook  (Yararena)

In accordance with YARA's open policy, The Repository is published under a Creative Commons Attribution Share-Alike licence, which allows others to copy, distribute, and remix works published on our site, as long as they attribute the original and publish their adaptation/remixed version under a similar licence.