ETHICS GUIDELINES FOR TOWN ADVISORY BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

(Please check if you agree.)

____ Yes, if appointed, I pledge to comply with the following ethics guidelines for advisory boards and commissions as adopted by the Chapel Hill Town Council. (Other Council committees and OWASA are excluded.)

Members of advisory boards and commissions shall not discuss, advocate, or vote on any matter in which they have a conflict of interest or an interest which reasonably might appear to be in conflict with the concept of fairness in dealing with public business. A conflict of interest or a potential conflict occurs if a member has a separate, private, or monetary interest, either direct or indirect, in any issue or transaction under consideration. Any member who violates this provision may be subject to removal from the board or commission.

If the advisory board or commission member believes he/she has a conflict of interest then that member should ask the advisory board or commission to be recused from voting. The advisory board or commission should then vote on the question on whether or not to excuse the member making the request. In cases where the individual member or the advisory board or commission establishes a conflict of interest, then the advisory board or commission member shall remove themselves from the voting area.

Any advisory board or commission member may seek the counsel of the Town Attorney on questions regarding the interpretation of these ethics guidelines or other conflict of interest matters. The interpretation may include a recommendation on whether or not the advisory board or commission member should excuse himself/herself from voting. The advisory board or commission member may request the Town Attorney respond in writing.

Please provide a brief statement outlining why you wish to serve on the Advisory Boards, Commissions, or Committees you have indicated.

For as long as I can remember I have enjoyed reading novels for their stories, their reflection of the times they were written as well as my delight of an author's turn of the word. While teaching at Seawell Elementary School, one of my goals was sharing this joy as well as fostering the importance of analyzing and evaluating written matter. As a result I enrolled in the training as a Great Books leader because I believe that a strong citizen population is required not only to understand written matter but to be able to critique it. Great Books develops critical thinking, enlarging discussions of reading matter from comprehension to analysis and implied meaning. It was my pleasure to use this method in my classroom, as well as to train volunteers who read with our students.

A public library like public schools is charged with the task of reducing the inequalities among its population. This is particularly true in Chapel Hill where a large percentage of our citizens are well educated, use the library and even have private collections of books and magazines. Our library serves both this population as well as those whose only source of books and media equipment resides on Estes Drive. With creative thinking we will be able to continue enlarging our collection as well as embracing more of our citizens as consumers. I would like to support you to continue your work.

I am applying to serve on the Chapel Hill Public Arts Commission because of my interest in art as an active part of public life, and my love of Chapel Hill, and desire to make it an even more special place. I moved to Chapel Hill almost a year ago, in June of 2010, and since moving, I have come to appreciate many aspects of the town, as well as the active participation of its citizens in all aspects of public life. While I was a college student (2000-04) I became involved in art installations: creating and displaying some of my own work, as well as curating the works of other students. These interests continued after I graduated from college while I lived in New York City, northern New Jersey, and Lviv, Ukraine. In each place I resided, I was excited to have the opportunity to help contribute to the presentation of art in more and less formal settings, and to help weave art into the public sphere. I have learned a great deal from these experiences, and I look forward to working with the arts on a different level in Chapel Hill on the Public Arts Commission. I like Chapel Hill's progressive attitudes and I am eager to work with the Commission on ideas for promoting and introducing art throughout the town.

Statement:

This January 2012 I was appointed to a 6-month replacement spot with The Chapel Hill Public Arts Commission. I am reapplying for membership so that I can continue serving on the Commission beyond that date for a new, full term.

I am fully committed to making Chapel Hill a better town through working on the Public Arts Commission. Public Arts is an essential component to creating community. Public art creates a vibrant town which attracts visitors and businesses providing much economic benefit; engages a community in dialogue around cultural, civic, and economic issues; explores differences and heals divides; provides an opportunity for populations to participate in art that may otherwise be prohibited from doing so (i.e., financial or transportation limitations); educates individuals; and connects artists with community. The benefits of Public Art strengthen the overall fabric of our community.

Since joining the Commission I have become an active member on several committees and take my role on the commission seriously. My goal is to influence the direction of programs, such as the Artist in Residence program and the Community Arts Program, to find artistic endeavors that celebrate our diversity, address cultural and economic issues, and engage all populations. While I am an artist, it is my professional background as a nurse and Integrative Health Coach, and my MPH education that gauge my strong desire to use my skills, passion and creative talents to help others and our community.

Yes, if appointed, I pledge to comply with the following ethics guidelines for advisory boards and commissions as adopted by the Chapel Hill Town Council. (Other Council committees and OWASA are excluded.)

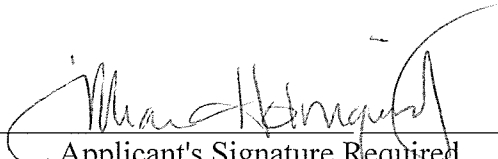

Members of advisory boards and commissions shall not discuss, advocate, or vote on any matter in which they have a conflict of interest or an interest which reasonably might appear to be in conflict with the concept of fairness in dealing with public business. A conflict of interest or a potential conflict occurs if a member has a separate, private, or monetary interest, either direct or indirect, in any issue or transaction under consideration. Any member who violates this provision may be subject to removal from the board or commission.

If the advisory board or commission member believes he/she has a conflict of interest then that member should ask the advisory board or commission to be recused from voting. The advisory board or commission should then vote on the question on whether or not to excuse the member making the request. In cases where the individual member or the advisory board or commission establishes a conflict of interest, then the advisory board or commission member shall remove themselves from the voting area.

Any advisory board or commission member may seek the counsel of the Town Attorney on questions regarding the interpretation of these ethics guidelines or other conflict of interest matters. The interpretation may include a recommendation on whether or not the advisory board or commission member should excuse himself/herself from voting. The advisory board or commission member may request the Town Attorney respond in writing.

Please provide a brief statement outlining why you wish to serve on the Advisory Boards, Commissions, or Committees you have indicated.

I went to UNC for college and moved back to the town this summer. I was complaining to a friend about the public art I had seen. He said if it really interested me I should get involved and do something to improve public art in Chapel Hill.

I have an interest in art, I love Chapel Hill, and I have a flexible schedule that allows me to make all the meetings for the commission.

I was also interested in how local government works and thought this would be an opportunity to learn and perhaps make a small contribution.

I am in love with the arts and think they are extraordinarily valuable to any community. They matter politically, educationally, and aesthetically to the daily lives of us all. Chapel Hill is in a unique position, being centered around UNC, to tap into remarkable talent and resources present at such a large university. Chapel Hill is already an extremely vibrant, artistic community and fostering our relationship with UNC can only help.

For the short time I've been a member of the Chapel Hill Public Arts Commission, I've seen what an amazing impact it can have on the community. Through initiatives like Sculpture Visions and The Present for Art Program, CHPAC has had an extraordinary effect on the Chapel Hill community. I know that we can do so much more over the next year to make our community even better.
